AIDSImpact is an international behavioural and biopsychosocial science conference that addresses issues related to HIV and AIDS prevention, treatment and care. On 12th June, Corinna Csaky of the Coalition for Children Affected by AIDS and John Stover of Avenir Health will present at a roundtable session on closing the funding gap for children and adolescents affected by HIV. The starting point for this discussion will be a groundbreaking new report showing how much is spent on children and adolescents around the world, on what, where and what the gaps are. Audience Members will then be invited to reflect on what further evidence would help us all to advocate for better financing for children and adolescents affected by HIV. AIDSImpact is an in person conference only. For those that can't attend but would like to join in the conversation, see here for our new report. We invite champions for children and adolescents affected by HIV in all settings - from local to global - to email us with their suggestions for what further evidence would help us all close the funding gaps (info@childrenandHIV.org). You can also sign up to become an Advocate Member of the Coalition and receive further advice and support - sign up here.
